Ever wondered what it's like to study at university?

InspireU is a series of free residential camps for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students in Years 11 and 12. The camps are an opportunity for students to experience university life, participate in workshops and lectures on campus, and explore different subject areas and career opportunities.

How do I apply?

Students in Year 11 and 12 with an interest in studying Engineering, Health Sciences, Law, or Business are encouraged to apply. Year 9 and 10 students can apply for the Junior STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) camp.

Students will need to complete an application form and have written support from their school. Students will be selected based on their interest in the area, their involvement in related school subjects and their academic record.
